We invite you to join !

The WBGA is a non-profit producer based commodity group. Our goal is to represent the barley producers of western Canada. In terms of financial support this means we count heavily on the membership. Without a strong membership we have no funds to run the organization and worse, we do not have a large base to draw ideas and future directors from.

Each director spends anywhere from 20 to 90 days per year on WBGA activities. Directors do not receive a per diem, the WBGA is a willing volunteer effort.

The directors represent the membership in areas of agriculture policy. As a farmer, you need farmers acting on your behalf, speaking for your rights in boardrooms and communities across this country.

With its ongoing commitment to freedom of choice, self-reliance and personal initiative, the WBGA will be your voice in the power centres of the grains industry. As well, we will be on hand to support you and provide you with information on various proceedings.

Good organizations do not just exist. They are always growing. We are always looking for new members and people who will work as directors. Being a producer organization means being involved.

If you have a concern or feel we are not paying enough attention to a particular issue, please contact any of our executive and we will have someone discuss the issue with you.

Listed below are only some of the meetings and committees WBGA have participated in or hosted and initiatives taken in the past.
